

There are two types of Encryption keys in Azure --one is MMK and CMK. CMK is more Secure. For using CMK, a new key is created and stored in the key vault and the storage account is given access to the key stored in the vault using managed identities.

